SECTION C

LITERATURE

1) How did the kingdom established?

One

day, a young prince from across the sea appeared and established a city that would become the Kingdom of Wisdom. Eventually he had two sons who went out in the wilderness to start their own cities, one founding Dictionopolis and the other establishing Digitopolis.

2) Why were Rhyme and Reason loved by every one?

They were loved by everyone because of their great beauty, their gentle ways, and their ability to settle all controversies fairly and reasonably.

3) What were the instructions given by the King?

When the king died, he left instructions that the Kingdom of Wisdom was to be divided equally between his two sons, who would also have the responsibility of caring for Rhyme and Reason.

4) Considering the conditions of the kingdom, why was the return of Rhyme and Reason nothing less than crucial?

The return of Rhyme and Reason become crucial since they were the only one who could solve the issues fairly.

5) What was the conflict between the brothers and with whom did the two sisters agree with?

King Azaz was the ruler of Dictionopolis, the kingdom of words. The Mathemagician was the ruler of Digitopolis, the kingdom of mathematics. They started to become enemies because they were constantly fighting over which was more important, words or numbers. They both asked Rhyme and Reason what was more important. Rhyme and Reason agreed with none and said that both are important.

6) Write a character sketch of King Azaz.

King Azaz is more like a stereotypical ruler than his brother the Mathemagician. He takes the title of king, he lives in a palace, and he encourages his subjects to attend banquets. Physically, he's an imposing guy: "He was the largest man Milo had ever seen, with a great stomach, large piercing eyes, a gray beard that reached to his waist, and a silver signet ring on the little finger of his left hand. He also wore a small crown and a robe with the letters of the alphabet beautifully embroidered all over it.

7) 4 Adjectives.
